Japan is eagerly taking advantage of. ing any other product of the country. Futting a tax on sugar may not be class legislation as that term is generally understood, but it is in its essence the same thing exactly. Simply because a certain industry pays big dividends is not a legal reason for singling it out to meet Government expenses. Probably at the present time an acre of taro or any other Island product, but our anti-haole legislative majority would nardly relish the suggestion of a tax on tare. Hilo Tribune.
